Food by Force for Heads Of Doukhobors in Fast

NELSON, B. C. — Provincial authorities have intervened in the hunger strike of Doukhobors in Chestova, B. C., ordering the forcible feeding of the strike leaders, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Tamelin, on the 2 th day of their self-imposed fast, it was reported recently.

The couple was reported to be showing "improvement." Twenty other Doukhobors were said to "have gone back to their normal way of life," after a 24-hour fast.

The Doukhobors, members of a sect notorious for nude protest parades, began the hunger strike to obtain release from jail of 30 members locked up for demonstrations against Canadian draft regulations.

Filipino Pupils Learn to Sing 'God Bless America'

PANAUAN, LEYTE, P. I.—Filipino grade school children began learning the words to "God Bless America" as the first school opened in liberated territory. The little tots repeated the words in unison, line for line, after their Filipino woman teacher.

It was the first time they had been allowed to speak of America publicly since the Japanese occupation over two years ago.

Travel by Ship In Postwar Era

Survey Forecasts Trend to Sea Voyages; Boats of U. S. Preferred.

NEW YORK.—A survey of postwar travel, based on expressed plans of thousands of individuals, showed that only 25.09 per cent of the queried persons planned to travel for business, while the remainder will travel for pleasure, according to the forthcoming issue of Ships, publication of the Shipbuilders Council of America.

In refutation of pessimistic viewpoints expressed in the past steamships will play a big postwar era, the magazine said that 60.64 per cent had expressed the desire to travel exclusively by ships. Slightly more than 12½ per cent indicated a preference for a combination trip and the rest, approximately 27 per cent, said they would travel both ways by air.

Reporting a "sharp and dramatic swing" toward an increased use of American ships, the survey asserted that more than 65 per cent of the replies showed a marked preference for them. The remainder were made up largely of persons who had never traveled on any but foreign-flag vessels, and based their preference on what they believed to be a superiority of food and service. Some said that they wanted to travel on foreign ships because of the novelty.

A Factual Survey.

The council said its survey was "completely factual, comprehensive and indisputable with no element of guesswork because it was based on expressed plans." An official of the organization declared that the response was "volume beyond expectation," with replies from every state but Wyoming—even from Canada, Hawaii and Alaska.

Replies were received from the largest cities in the United States from the small towns and points between.

A summarized version of the survey shows that English and channel ports, the east coast of South America, Hawaii and the Pacific Islands are the leaders among the favorite travel spots of the future for Americans.

The list of points of destination and percentage preferences, according to areas, shows: 21.57 per cent plan to travel to England and channel ports, 11.18 per cent to the Mediterranean, 5.63 to Baltic ports, 12.99 to the east coast of South America and 9.07 to its west coast, 7.47 to west coast of the United States via the Panama Canal, 8 per cent to the Far East, China and Australia, 11.31 per cent to Hawaii and other Pacific islands, 10.91 per cent to Cuba and the Caribbean and 1.57 per cent to other places.

No Data on Old Preferences.

"No data appears to be available as to the prewar travel preferences of Americans. It is believed, however, that foreign ships enjoyed a much greater volume of our American traveler's money than is shown by the survey. Some estimates, from semi-official quarters, are as high as 92.5 per cent on the North Atlantic run in one typical year.

"Travel, aside from those in the armed forces, has been denied Americans during the duration of the war. Thousands of Americans are tired, hungry for rest, the relaxation and change of scene that only an ocean voyage can give them.

"The majority sentiment for American ships is a welcome trend. It should be encouraging to the large and well-informed American shipping interests who are looking to the future. It should likewise stimulate the United States maritime commission who have worked hard and intelligently for this result. It should give congress ample and sustaining assurance that there is a national demand for an American merchant marine, second to none."

The DEBUNKER
By John Harvey Furbay, Ph.D.

Scientists have exploded the popular idea that "a lot of brains" makes for smartness. The truth is that the brain of a smart person may weigh less than that of a dull person—and generally does. A moron may have a brain of unusual size. Furthermore, "the depth and number of convolutions in the brain of a highly endowed man are no more complicated than those in the brain of a moron," one scientist states. About the only difference known in structure is the size and number of blood vessels covering the brain.
